Vancouver, B.C. – Art Vancouver's international art fair kicks off at the Vancouver Convention Centre, West from May 4–7, 2023.

This year, Art Vancouver hosts new artists and galleries from around the world, celebrating a multitude of voices from a diverse cultural breadth. The representation of artists from Asia, Africa, Europe and the Americas emphasizes the City of Vancouver as a destination city for artists, collectors and art lovers alike.

With international eyes on Art Vancouver this year, giving Canadian and Indigenous artists a platform on the international stage is a priority. Featuring 37 artists from across the country, connecting local and national artists who are selling their work to an international audience of collectors and galleries.

With the emergence of artificial intelligence this year's Art Talks assembled a panel of experts in Artificial Intelligence to discuss this new era of technology, exploring the future of art and how artificial intelligence will instigate a shift in the current paradigm.

Art Vancouver has put together a diverse and engaging program that offers something for everyone. Whether attendees are artists themselves, or simply enthusiasts of art and creativity, there should be plenty of opportunities to learn, engage, and be inspired.

"We are thrilled to have attendees and exhibitors coming to our beautiful city from around the world. Having a global representation of exhibitors at our show is truly a privilege, bringing together diverse groups of voices and perspectives, giving them a place on the world stage is incredibly rewarding for us. The possibilities are endless when such incredible talent comes together in one place."
